DEBATING PLANS.

Debate with Rutgers Definitely Arranged for April 24.

The sophomore-junior debate will be held Friday evening, February 27. This is the final debate of the inter-class series, the juniors having defeated the seniors on the question that The United States Should Annex Mexico, and the sophomores having defeated the freshmen on the question that The College Course for an A. B. Degree Should be Shortened to Three Years. The question for the final debate will be, Resolved, That the United States Should Abandon the Monroe Doctrine as a Foreign Policy. The juniors will support the negative side of the question and the sophomores will support the affirmative. The members of the sophomore team are R. Z. Johnston, R. B. O'Connor, and J. G. N. Mitchell. The junior team is composed of L. Spitz, W. A. Duffy, and J. A. Mitchell.

The date for the Trinity-Rutgers debate has been set for April 24. This debate will be held in Hartford. The question is, Resolved, That the Banking and Currency Reform Legislation in the United States Should Contain a Provision for a Central Bank under Federal Control. It has been held that this question is to be debated with the understanding "that a central bank has not been established by the new currency law." It has been decided that Trinity will support the negative of the question. As Rutgers insisted on submitting the question, Trinity had the choice of sides.

The Trinity team will be picked at "try-outs" to be held in Alumni Hall Friday afternoon, March 6, at four o'clock. The committee of selection shall consist of the following members of the faculty: Professors Kleene, Gettell, Urban, and Mr. Corbett. The basis of selection will be a five to eight-minute speech on that side of the question which Trinity will have to support against Rutgers. Three men will be selected, with one alternate. With the growing prominence of debating as one of the college activities here at Trinity and the event of the inter-collegiate debate, it is expected that a large amount of enthusiasm will be shown both at the inter-class debate and at the "try-outs" for the Trinity-Rutgers debate.

Plans for '99 Reunion.

Plans are now under way for the '99 quinquennial reunion in June. A circular letter will soon be sent to the members urging them to make their plans now to be on hand then. A. D. Vibbert, 51 Wall Street, New York, is Secretary.

RANKING OF COLLEGES.

Columbia Leads with Enrollment of 9,929. California Second.

The Associated Press has recently issued and circulated throughout the country statistics showing the rating of American universities as to enrollment. It is interesting to note how large some of the western institutions are, and how many of them rank ahead of Harvard and Yale, which easterners are frequently inclined to consider the largest in the country. The first ten universities together have at present a total of 63,697 students.

Baldwin, '17, Ill with Pneumonia.

Guy M. Baldwin, '17, of Williamsport, Pa., who was suddenly taken ill with pneumonia last Monday night, is reported as doing well at the Hartford City Hospital, although he probably will be confined to his bed for some time to come. His father is at his bedside, and with every care, his friends at college hope to have him back among them soon.

JUNIOR SMOKER.

First of Series of Smokers held Monday Night at the I. K. A.

The semi-impossible was accomplished in our very midst Monday night, at the I. K. A. house, when good-fellowship, expurgated punch, and Fatimas (no advertisement) buried the hatchet and amicably joined forces with the Latin literature, as entertainingly expounded by Professor Leroy C. Barrett, in making enjoyable the occasion of the first of the smokers of the class of 1915.

In pursuance of the plan inaugurated last year by the present seniors, the junior class has begun its series of smokers, to be held every two weeks at the several fraternity houses in turn. H. L. Brainard is chairman of the committee in charge.

The speaker of the occasion was Professor Barrett, who chose as his subject the preservation of the Latin literature from the time of its creation up to the invention of printing. The productive period, said Professor Barrett, ended about the year 100 A. D. The literature then produced had been written on papyrus, parchment, and vellum. During the time of the decline of the classic literature, and prior to the Germanic invasions, the works of older writers were studied in the schools, libraries were founded, and annotated copies of the classic authors were made for school use. Not all of the works of an author were copied, for this purpose. Thus out of 140 books of Livy's history, only 35 have come down to us.

During the period of anarchy and disorder which characterized the dark ages, the classic literature disappeared. Latin, as a spoken language, was nearly extinct by the time of Charlemagne, and illiteracy was common. The main thing that saved the literature during this time was the practice in the monasteries of copying manuscripts merely for the sake of employment. Frequently the monks took old manuscripts, scratched out the writing, and wrote thereon works of their own composition; these pieces of parchment, seemingly valueless, when treated with chemicals, reveal the wealth of literature which some unappreciative monk had condemned.

With the revival of learning in the fourteenth century the thirst for Latin literature created such a frenzy that scholars scoured the monasteries and other out of the way sources and thus discovered a great quantity of valuable manuscript.

In concluding his talk, Professor Barrett told of the efforts of the modern scholar, Tischendorf who, early in the nineteenth century found, in a waste basket of a monastery on Mt. Sinai, parts of an early Greek manuscript of the Bible. He returned to the monastery in 1856, in the hope of recovering more manuscript, but was informed that there was no more. Believing that he was being deceived, he returned again three years later and discovered a priceless Greek Bible, which is now in the possession of the Russian Government.

COLLEGE MEETING.

More Support Needed for Track and Baseball.

A special meeting of the college body was held last Monday evening in Alumni Hall for the purpose of arousing more spirit over track and baseball. F. S. Fitzpatrick, '14, president of the Senate, presided, and opened the meeting by commenting upon the lack of student spirit in track and baseball as compared with football, and by urging it upon everyone to see that this state of affairs is remedied. He said that Trinity was noted for its football spirit, and also for the fact that baseball and track athletics were not so well supported. This is unfortunate, for the very reason that we turn out football teams of high calibre, and baseball and track teams that are not so good. The latter two teams, should be supported with just as much spirit as is the football team, for the reason that true spirit is not measured by the amount of success a team wins. In order to develop more spirit for the track and baseball seasons, Mr. Fitzpatrick said that from now on until there should be regular periodical meetings of the college body for that purpose.

T. F. Wessels, '14, captain of the track team, was introduced and cheered. He appealed for more spirit for the track team, and particularly at the Armory meet. He outlined the plans of the track season in general, and spoke of the Armory meet in particular, saying that Trinity had entered many good men in many events, and that the whole college body should be present at the meet to provide strong cheering.

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB.

Members Plan for the Coming Convention.

At a meeting of the Political Science Club held at Professor Gettell's residence last Thursday evening, the secretary read a communication concerning the annual convention of the Intercollegiate Civic League to be held in New York and Washington on April second and third, and President Fitzpatrick urged that as many of the membership of the Club go as could possibly make the trip. Trinity will probably be represented by President Fitzpatrick, Lazarus, Stadtmueller, Roberts and Moses.

The evening was given over to a review of current topics, the discussion being led by Wroth, '14.

At the conclusion of Professor Barrett's talk, punch was served, and the smoker resolved into its purely social capacity, lasting until about 9 p. m.

"NOW THEN TRINITY"

What Do You Know?

From The Independent we learn that at the Friends' School, Germantown, Pennsylvania, there is given annually a test of "all-round" knowledge. The questions are intended for boys and girls from thirteen to eighteen, but we venture to say that most of the men now in college will find considerable difficulty in answering the majority of them correctly. They are all questions, too, which every well-informed man should know with certainty. Read a few of these over and see how abysmal is your ignorance. There are over one hundred questions in all. We have selected twenty-five.

Name:

3—The American Ambassador to Great Britain.

4—The engineer of the Panama Canal.

7—The Prime Minister of England.

8—The political party now in power at Washington, D. C.

10—The new national revenue tax.

15—The cities that have been capitals of our country.

In what field or office have the following become prominent? Give nationality, also state whether contemporary or historical. 17—Leonardo da Vinci; 18—Alfred Noyes; 22—Winston Churchill; 25—Rabindranath Tagore.

What historical or literary associations are connected with the following? Tell what nations were involved. 27—Treaty of Ghent; 28—Trafalgar; 30—the Craigie House; 31—Islam.

Who was: 65—the Scourge of God; 66—the Little Corporal; 67—the Iron Chancellor; 68—Le Grand Monarque?

71—What is raw water? How are its dangers averted?

73—What is a chronometer?

74—What is a semaphore? a car-buretor?

76—Of what play is "Rosalind" a heroine? "Titania?"

83—Define hexameter, kilometer, cyclometer.

84—Who slew Sisera?

85—Where is the "Mona Lisa" now?

Sophomore Smoker Entertainment.

Aside from the usual speeches (which by the way, are going to be most unusual, this year) 1916 has planned a varied and entertaining programme for the occasion. The exact order of events has not been definitely decided on, as yet, but somewhere in the olio will be found the following: A sketch by Martin and Baker. It is sure to be good, and just as sure to have the flavor of the "Sunny South" lurking in it. Another decidedly novel feature will be the reappearance of several of the stars, or perhaps planets would be better, who twinkled so luminously in "7-20-8" last year. There is much curiosity, and speculation is rife as to how Thorne will appear in the latest Paris creations. Messrs. N. J. and W. B. George have been imported at great expense and will give an illustrated lecture on "Cartooning Made Funny—a la, 'Bud' Fisher." It is rather hard to see how it can be done, but if any can do it surely they are the ones. Then, too, it is rumored that the 1916 Quartet will perform. But perhaps it would be better to conceal that until the last moment, and then spring it before the audience can get away. And last and greatest attraction, if any more were needed, is the whispered information that 1916 is the proud possessor of a "Pony Ballet," equalled by few; surpassed by none. Just who composes this "Ballet" is at present a secret, and whether they can conquer their modesty long enough to appear at all, is uncertain; but if it is attempted, the method of reckoning dates at Trinity will be changed to "From the 1916 Smoker." With such prospects our guests are sure to be delighted. It but remains for the rest of the college to strengthen and confirm the good impressions imparted by the Sophomore Smoker of 1916.
